East Asian Strategic Review 2013
National Institute for Defense Studies (NIDS)

The maintenance of peace and stability in East Asia requires an objective understanding of the regional security environment.

With the aim of facilitating that understanding, NIDS researchers examine trends and developments in East Asian security circumstances from their unique perspectives, and compile their analyses in the East Asian Strategic Review (EASR), which is published annually.

[Contents]
1. India’s Foreign and Security Policy: Expanding Roles and Influence in the Region and Beyond
2. Australia's Security Policy: Enhancing Engagements in the Asia-Pacific Region
4. The Korean Peninsula: "Nuclear Weapons State" North Korea Aiming to Become an Economic Power, ROK Seeking Active Deterrence Capability
5. China: The 18th Party Congress Focuses on the Next Generation of Leadership
6. Southeast Asia: ASEAN and Greater US Engagement
7. Russia: The Second Putin Administration's Stance toward China and Focus on Asia
8. The United States: Challenges for the Obama Administration's Second Term

National Institute for Defense Studies, Tokyo